Our Local Industries

There is much of litterest, which lying closed own doors, we are apt to poss by as unwoid notices. The Londoner very frequently in second the House of Parliament, less of the funct, the House of Parliament, and so forth, thin the country comin; the resident of St. Petersburg is less acquainted with the Winter Palace or the Remittee, than he who comes from the provinces, and we are quite sure that the citizem of Washington or New York does not know his lines half so well, as his stranger friend after a short visit.

A stroll through the foundry and from Works the other day caused the above reflection. Here was a manufactory of considerable extent which few of our citizens, outside those whose bruiness connection obliges them to visit it, ever think of. Of course areay one knows of its entennee, but how many realize its extent, the number of hands employed or what sort of work is turned out?

The first double effect made on the islands, of 12 tons, has just been turned out; it has been set up at Insupalucabos, and has worked aplantially from the first. The first triple effect for the New Mill at Laupahuchoe, is now in course of construction. The whole plant is rapidly approaching completion. When our reporter visited the works the different portions of the well, engine, clarifiers, cleaning pans, triple effect, vacuum pan and centrifugals were all lying about in various stages of advancement. The centrifugals in the New Mill are to be worked upon a new plan, great hydratile propared for the Kohalalele landing in Hawan.
An 5x10 ft vacuum pan is being prepared for Wallaku plantation. The middle width of this was having its flanges turned in the lathe; the from was being slaved off as easily as you would out choses with a knife. A new feature, with regard to the setting up vacuum pans, was brought to our reporter's attention. They are set on conical from stages, which make a very firm platform while the hollow can be utilized for a molasse

while the hollow can be stituted for a moissest tank.

The boiler makers were busy, and the constant hammering deafened any one who went into their shed, they were at work upon boilers and one of the stages above mentioned, a huge affair. It is said that boiler makers become deaf after a certain probation at their trade: it is further said that at that stage they are desirable husbands. The section devoted to castings is very complete. Mr. Young said that duplicates of the very heaviest machinery on the islands could be made. Preparations were under way for making a large casting of the top of the 8-ft vacuum pan for Wailaku. A deep pit had been dup and a model was ready to be fitted into the sand that was to form the mould.

Our reporter next visited the pattern room. Here there were a number of men at work, prepar-

Our reporter next visited the pattern room. Here there were a number of men at work, preparing models for the castings; there was a constant whirr of lathes and a flying of shavings. The model of a large casting was nearly readyr it was for the Lampaloeboe mill.

Under the pattern room is a large apartment for storing piping. A large stock of this is kept on hand, both galvanized and bluck, its sizes ranging from a tinch to vinches.

In the store rooms, near the office, a large quantity of hear iron is kept on hand; Mr. Young put the figures at 600 tons. The Copper Smiths were busy; they had worked up ten tons of that metal during the last three months; it is not generally known how much work this department does. Lastly the reporter took a look into the draughtsman's department. This was very business like, a number of plans were lying "bout, and some admirably limished mechanical drawings. Coptes of plans are made by a photographic method which was described in the Garrary soon, after it came into
